Distress

People living with cancer feel many different emotions, including distress. Distress is emotional, mental, social, or spiritual suffering. Here’s what you can do to help ease this symptom.

TRY THIS
Don’t overwhelm yourself. Focus on one thing, one day at a time. Take small steps.
Be physically active. Exercising can improve how well you feel.
Practice self-reflection. When you’re feeling stressed, pause to think about the situation.

Practice Mindfulness and Relaxation

Cancer and its treatment can be stressful—for you and your caregivers. Practicing mindfulness and relaxation can help calm your mind, reduce stress, and sharpen your ability to focus.

TRY THIS
Enjoy simple pleasures. Enjoy your favorite food, or listen to your favorite song.
Take a walk outside. Walk slowly. Notice what you see, hear, and smell.
Practice deep conscious breathing. Sit in a quiet spot for a few minutes. Notice your breath.

Be Active

Exercise is not only safe and possible during cancer treatment, but it can improve how well you function physically and your quality of life.

TRY THIS
Do physical activity. Being physically active for even just a few minutes a day is helpful.
Begin with warm-up exercises. Start slowly and warm up for at least 2 to 3 minutes.
